Workplace Giving

Supporting survivors of family and sexual violence in Papua New Guinea

What is Workplace Giving?

Employees make small, automatic and pre-tax donations to Femili PNG through their employer’s payroll system. Workplace giving can be complemented by company donation matching.

Why Workplace Giving?

Businesses and employees work together to build a Papua New Guinea where people live free of intimidation, abuse and family violence.

Workplace Giving means Femili PNG receives a steady income stream to ensure long-term and sustainable programs for survivors of family and sexual violence.

The value of the employee donation is increased through pre-tax giving. A $20 donation costs only $12.60 (depending on your tax bracket), but the charity receives $20. If the workplace matches the donation, the charity receives $40.

Workplace giving increases the engagement of employees through pride in their work and workplace. Employers establish credibility as genuine corporate citizens.
